INTRODUCTION

Purpose of the document

This document introduces the data collected as part of the Prindex initiative. It gives users the basic information they need to carry out their own analysis using the Prindex data. Further information on the Prindex methodology, including the questionnaires and details on property documentation, and answers to frequently asked questions is available from the Prindex website - www.prindex.net.

Structure of the document

The first part of the document contains a description of the Prindex data. The next section contains details on key variables which are computed (recoded) from the raw data. The third section has information on sampling and associated variables. The annexes contain the list of surveyed countries, including details of areas or populations which were excluded from the sampling frame and details for all variables.

1. THE PRINDEX DATA

In this section, we describe the key aspects of the Prindex data collection methodology and how this affects the contents and structure of the datasets. There are more details on the Prindex methodology on the Prindex website - www.prindex.net.

The Prindex data is collected through interviews with randomly selected individuals over the age of 18¹ from each country either in person, by telephone or online. Therefore, each observation in the datasets represents the responses for one individual from one round of data collection. This is different to some surveys on property rights which interview the head of each household and report findings at household or property level. The Prindex approach means the estimates are nationally representative for the population over 18 years of age in each country.

The Prindex data was collected in two rounds. The Round 1 data collection comprised three waves. The first two waves were conducted in 2018 and 2019. Hereafter, this is called the Round 1 Wave 1 & 2 data. The third wave of Round 1 was carried out in 2019 and 2020 as part of the Gallup World Poll. Hereafter, this is called the Round 1 GWP data. The combined Round 1 data was released in 2020. The Round 2 data was also collected as part of the Gallup World Poll. This data was released in 2024.

The Round 1 data collection was carried out in 140 countries, 33 countries in wave 1 & 2 and 107 countries in the GWP. Round 2 data collection was carried out in 108 countries due to funding limitations. Western European and High-Income countries included in Round 1 were disproportionately excluded in Round 2. A small number of other countries were also excluded as they were not a part of the GWP in 2023/24 due to insecurity or problems with permission to conduct the survey. Any comparisons of aggregated results (e.g. for regions or globally) between Round 1 and Round 2 should take this into account to ensure comparability.

Different sampling approaches are used to select individuals depending on the survey method and availability of data to construct the sampling frame. However, the sampling approaches all aim to provide a dataset that is nationally representative for the population over the age of 18 years. Typically, circa 1,000 individuals are interviewed in each country. This is increased in some countries with larger populations. Annex 1 has the list of countries, the round and wave in which the data were collected and the number of completed observations. In section 0, there is further information on sampling and the variables that need to be used in analysis of the Prindex data to account for the sampling approaches, including sampling weights.

The questionnaires used in all data collection can be downloaded from the Prindex website. There are three versions:

1. Round 1 wave 1 & 2, including in the UK where the survey was collected through computer assisted in telephone interviews (CATI) rather than computer assisted in person interviews (CAPI).
2. GWP Round 1 and Round 2 computer assisted in person interviews (CAPI)
3. GWP Round 1 and Round 2 computer assisted telephone interviews (CATI)²

The structure of the datasets reflects the different rounds of data collection and associated questionnaires. The first variables in the datasets are computed variables recoded from responses to all rounds of data collection. These are described in more detail in Section 2 of this report. The next set of variables are from the Round 1 wave 1 & 2 data collection. Typically, these are prefixed with Q followed by a number. This relates to the number of the question in the questionnaire. The final set of variables are from the Round 1 and Round 2 GWP data collection. These are typically prefixed WP followed by a number. Again, this relates to the number of the question from the questionnaire. When variable names have two different 'WP' numbers (e.g. WP20656_WP20791), the first number relates to the face-to-face survey and the second to the survey conducted by telephone. Annex 2 contains details of all variables.

While the overall Prindex approach is maintained over time, some other adjustments were necessary between the rounds. The size and locations of the populations excluded from the sampling frame changed in some countries, see annex 1. The data collection method in nine countries changed, typically the switch was from CAPI to CATI. Computer assisted web-based interviewing (CAWI) was introduced in China. The post-stratification adjustments to the sampling weights (see section 3) should address many of the differences in respondent characteristics introduced by these changes. The data collected about land and property documentation was also updated, see the section on computed land and property documentation variables for details. Some changes were also necessary for individual variables, see annex 2 for details.

To ensure respondent confidentiality and for contractual reasons, some data for some questions are not made publicly available. Please contact the Prindex team for information about variables that are not publicly available.

Two earlier pilot surveys were also carried out prior to Round 1. This data is not contained in the main Prindex datasets and so is not covered by this guide. For information on piloting, see the reports on the nine-country pilot and three-country pilot on the Prindex website.

Data access and license

The datasets can be downloaded from the Prindex website. Separate datasets for each round of data collection and a combined dataset are available in .csv and .dta (Stata) format.

2. COMPUTED (RECODED) VARIABLES

To facilitate use of the Prindex data, we have created a number of variables that combine the responses from all rounds of data collection. These are described in this section of the report. Further details are provided in Annex 2. We recommend that these variables are used where possible as they are consistent across all rounds of data collection and are used for the majority of results published by Prindex.

Prindex unique id (variable name: `prindex_unique_id`)

This is a unique ID for all observations from both Round 1 and 2. The other ID variables, for example `wpid` from the GWP dataset, are specific to certain rounds or waves of data collection.

Country (variable name: `country`)

This is the country in which the survey was undertaken. The country names are based on the English short names from ISO 3166 in 2020. In some cases, the names have been shortened by removing portions that are in parenthesis in the ISO 3166 name. Commonly used country names have been adopted when there isn't an official ISO 3166 name, for example Northern Cyprus.

The coding for this variable follows the coding used by Gallup in the World Poll. It is not the ISO 3160 numeric code. The ISO 3160 numeric code, along with the relevant two- and three-digit alphabetical codes, are contained in variables `ISO_Numeric`, `ISO_Alpha_2_code` and `ISO_Alpha_3_code`.

Location (variable name: `location`)

This variable designates whether the observation was taken in an urban or rural area. It is based on variable Q6 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP14 from GWP. The table below illustrates how the relevant responses were combined. As the definition of urban and rural can vary between countries, care should be taken when comparing responses in urban or rural areas based on this variable across different countries.

Table 1 – Coding for the location variable

location	Q6	WP14
Urban	Urban Peri-Urban	A small town or village A large city A suburb of a large city
Rural	Rural	A rural area or on a farm
(Don't know / Other)	(Don't know)	(DK)
(Refused)	-	(Refused)

Gender (variable name: `gender`)

This is the respondent's gender. It is based on variable Q21_Gender from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP1219 from GWP. The coding is the same.

Age (variable names: `age`, `age_18_plus` and `age_18_plus_binary`)

Variable age is the respondent's self-reported age. It is based on variable Q21_Age from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP1220 from GWP. Numbers 1-98 are the respondents age. Code 99 is used for respondents who report being 99 years or older. Code 100 is used for respondents who refused to answer the question.

Variable age_18_plus is a categorization of age into 15 to 17 years, 18+ years and refused. Variable age_18_plus_binary is a binary version of age_18_plus with 15 to 17 years and refused collapsed.

Marital status (variable name: marital_status)

This is the self-reported marital status of the respondent. It is based on variable Q25 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP1223 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 2 – Coding for the marital status variable

Employment status (variable name: employment_status)

This is the respondent's self-reported employment status. It is based on variables Q27_1 to Q27_11 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and EMP_2010 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Education (variable name: education)

This is the respondent's self-reported highest level of education. It is based on variable Q26 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP3117 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 4 – Coding for the education variable

Household size (variable name: HHsize_recode)

This is the total number of people living in the household (adults and children). It is based on variables Q18 and Q19 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and HHsize from GWP. Numbers from 1 to 4 are the number of people in the household. Number 5 stands for 5 or more residents.

Income quintiles (variable names: inc_quint_18_plus and inc_quint_15_plus)

Variable inc_quint_18_plus is the income quintile in which the respondent's household is positioned in each country (not all countries) for age 18+ respondents. It is based on variables Q82 and Q83 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and INCOME_5_PRINDEX from GWP in 2020. In Round 2, it is calculated using a comparable approach to that used by Gallup.

Variable inc_quint_15_plus (only available for Round 2) is the income quintile for age 15+ respondents.

The income data is collected to allow comparisons between income groups within the dataset. It should not be used to estimate average household income outside of the dataset (e.g. at national level).

Income adequacy (variable name: income_adequacy) – NB this variable is not publicly available

This is the self-reported income adequacy for the household. It is based on variable Q31 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP2319 from GWP.

Tenure classification (variable name: tenure_class)

This is the respondent's self-reported tenure classification (status) for their main property (home). Typically, it is based on variable Q42_final from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP20666_WP20801 from GWP. The 'Family member owns' tenure classification was not directly included in the Round 1 wave 1 & 2 survey. Hence the tenure_class variable was computed from a combination of Q37 and Q37_other from the Round 1 wave 1 & 2 data. The variable is based on Q42A for Round 1 in Malawi. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Table 5 – Coding for the tenure classification variable

Main property (Home) has land attached (variable name: land_attached)

This variable records if the respondent's main property (home) has land attached solely for the household's use. It is based on variable Q36 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP20790 and WP20702 from GWP. 'No land attached' would be, for example, an apartment in an urban area. 'Land attached' would be, for example, a single-family home with a garden or agricultural land that is directly attached to the main property.

Other property (variable name: other_property)

This variable records if any household member has rights to land or property other than the main property (home). It is based on variable Q62 from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP20688_WP20821 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Tenure security for main property (home) (variable name: mainprop_security)

This is a measure of the respondent's perceived tenure security for their main property (home). It is based on variable Q46 for Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP20667_WP20802 from GWP. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Tenure security for additional property (variable name: addprop_security)

This is a measure of the respondent's perceived tenure security for any additional property to which they have rights. It is based on variable Q74 for Round 1 waves 1 & 2. The relevant questions were not asked in GWP in Round 1 or 2. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Tenure security for all properties (variable name: allprop_security)

This variable is the combination of the measures of the respondents perceived tenure security for all properties to which they have rights. It is based on variables mainprop_security, otherprop_security and addprop_security. This is the primary variable that we use to report levels of tenure security in Prindex documentation. The table below shows how the responses from the variables were combined.

Property documentation

All respondents were asked questions about the land and property documentation that they or a family member possess. The data were collected slightly differently in Round 1 wave 1 & 2 survey than in the GWP surveys.

In Round 1 wave 1 & 2, all respondents were asked to name all the property documentation they or a family member possess which relates to their main property (home) – question Q54. Their responses were recorded against a predefined list of property documents. Respondents who own or rent their main property (home) were also asked if they possessed certain types of documentation from the predefined list if they had not already mentioned them – question Q55. Respondents who reported having rights to other properties were asked if they or a family member possessed documentation for this property from a similar predefined list. The list of documentation varied between countries and whether the respondent owned or rented their property. Each document has been classified as formal or informal based on whether they could typically be used as evidence of rights in a court. Documents mentioned that were not on the lists were recorded in free text variables Q54_other, Q55_other and Q69_other. These have been recoded as one of three options in variables Q54_other_recode, Q55_other_recode and Q69_other_recode: 'Not a document, unclear, don't know or refused', 'Other informal' or 'Other formal'.

In the GWP surveys, all respondents were asked if they or a family member possessed certain types of documentation from a predefined list for their main property and other properties. As in Round 1 wave 1 & 2, the list of documentation varied between countries and whether the respondent owned or rented their property. They have been classified as formal or informal in the same way as Round 1 wave 1 & 2.

The names of documentation used in each country and whether they have been classified as formal or informal are available from the Prindex website. The following table contains summaries of how the individual variables have been recoded into aggregated variables for typical countries.

Respondent name on documentation for main property (variable name: main_prop_name_doc)

This variable records if the respondent's name is on any of the property documentation they have reported to possess for their main property (home). It is based on the Q56 variables for Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP20676_WP20832 for GWP. To align the methodologies from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and GWP only responses from respondents who own or rent their main property are included.

Reasons for insecurity (variable names: reason_1 to _7)

These variables record responses to the questions about the reasons a respondent feels insecure about their tenure for their main property (home). The Round 1 wave 1 & 2 survey contains questions on 12 reasons. The GWP survey contains questions on eight reasons. The table below shows how these have been combined into variables reason_1 to _7. Some questions were not asked in certain countries as it was considered unsafe for the respondent to answer or not applicable. The notes section of the Annex 2 contains the details of this.

Response to divorce scenario (variable names: divorce and divorce_classified)

Variable divorce is the responses to the question on perceived tenure security in the hypothetical situation of divorce. It is based on variable Q50 for Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP20685_WP20819 for GWP. These questions were only asked to respondents who reported being married. The same response options are used in the computed variable and the variables from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and GWP. The questions were not asked in some countries as it was deemed culturally inappropriate. Refer to Annex 2 for details.

Variable divorce_classified is a classification of divorce into three categories: Worried, Not Worried and (Don't know / Refused).

Response to spousal death (variable name: spousal_death and spousal_death_classified)

Variable spousal_death is the responses to the question on perceived tenure security in the hypothetical situation of spousal death. It is based on variable Q51 for Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and WP20687_WP20820 for GWP. These questions were only asked to respondents who reported being married. The same response options are used in the computed variable and the variables from Round 1 wave 1 & 2 and GWP. The questions were not asked in some countries as it was deemed culturally inappropriate. Refer to Annex 2 for details.

Variable spousal_death_classified is a classification of spousal_death into three categories Worried, Not Worried and (Don't know / Refused).

3. SAMPLING AND SURVEY VARIABLES

Sample size and composition: In Round 1, all respondents to the Prindex survey were aged 18 years or older. To achieve this in the GWP, Gallup increased their sample sizes in each country to obtain the required circa 1000 interviews as some interviews in the GWP are conducted with respondents aged 15 to 17. Data from respondents aged 15 to 17 are not included in the Prindex dataset for Round 1.

In Round 2, it was not possible to increase the sample size due to funding limitations. Therefore, the sample sizes of population aged 18 and above in each country in Round 2 are smaller. This reduction should not affect the point estimates but may increase the degree of uncertainty. It also places additional limitations on the degree to which the results can be disaggregated. The dataset for Round 2 contains the responses from respondents aged 15 to 17. These should be excluded from the point estimates for comparability with Prindex results over time. Variable `age_18_plus_binary` is provided for this.

It is not always able to include an entire country's population within their sampling frame. This means that some parts of the population will not be represented within the sample nor results. Typically, this is less than 5% of the population. The size and locations of the excluded population can also change between rounds of data collection. Any bias this may introduce should be reduced by the post-stratification adjustments to the sampling weights (see details below).

Annex 1 contains details of the countries included in each round, the sample sizes, areas excluded from the sample frame and data collection method.

Sampling approach: Various sampling approaches are used to select respondents and achieve the desired nationally representative sample of the aged 18 years and over population. CAPI data collection typically uses stratified multi-stage random sampling. CATI data collection typically uses stratified random sampling. Details of the approach used in the GWP are available in the Gallup World Poll Methodology document from the Gallup website. The implications of the sampling approach must be taken into account in analysis to correctly calculate the magnitude of statistics and their standard error.

Weight variables (`PRINDEX_WT` and `PRINDEX_WT_global`), a strata variable (`strata_all`) and a primary sampling unit (PSU) variable (`PSU_all`) are included in datasets for this purpose.

Variable `PRINDEX_WT` can be used for country level analysis. It is the combination of a design weight and calibration/post-stratification weight. It corrects for the unequal probability of selection of the individual respondents at country level and adjusts rates of response for key groups so they align with other national statistics, typically based on gender, age and educational attainment.

Variable `PRINDEX_WT_global` should be used for multi-country analysis such as for regions or income groups. It is the combination of a design weight, calibration/post-stratification weight and population size weight. In addition to adjusting for unequal probability of selection of the individual respondents at country level and rates of response for key groups, it adjusts for differences in country population sizes. The population estimates are from the United Nations, Department of Economic and Social Affairs, Population Division (2020 and 2024).
